

Jeffrey Rosenzweig
Summary for Boy Scout Troop 103's Outstanding Service Award
Presented June 16, 2018

This father joined the leadership team of the Cub Pack as an assisting parent and then as a Webelos Den Leader. He would eventually move into Troop 103 as Scoutmaster. He is now the longest-tenured scoutmaster this Troop has had in its 100-year history.

Without question, this leader has been a steady father-figure not only for his two Eagle Scout son's, but for hundreds of scouts during the past 12 years even after his own sons aged-out from the troop.

He is not apprehensive in seeking out the opinions of other leaders and relying on their expertise. He pursues the best course of action that will benefit the boys and the troop. He is well trained, experienced, and an all-around good guy. He was recognized in 2008 with the District Service Award and in 2015 with the District Award of Merit for his unlimited energy and devoted contributions to Scouting.

This leader is keen on communication. He guides, encourages, teaches, coaches, demonstrates tons of patience and accommodates boys with varied skills and abilities. His role takes lots of preparing, organizing, and finding ways for making scouting fun. And he is able to do all this by giving up just one hour of his time each week....at least that's how the saying goes for scoutmasters.

This leader has led Troop 103 to achieve a quality unit rating for the past 12 years (2006-2017). His scouts have achieved top troop status at numerous weekend and weeklong summer camps. Many of his first year scouts, called the Brownsea Patrol at summer camp, have earned the distinction of being to the top honor patrol for their hard work and ability to work and achieving success as a group. This scoutmaster has been part of 24 boys attaining the rank of Eagle.

We are delighted to be recognizing this deserving leader for his 12 years of Outstanding Service as Scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop 103: Jeffrey Rosenzweig.

Jeff, we would appreciate you sticking around in your role as Scoutmaster for another 30 years down the road, we can bestow a Lifetime of Service Award and 50 year service pin to you. Thank you and congratulations.

~~There was a young boy who entered the Cub Pack of 103 geared toward learning all he could. He set on a quest to develop and fine-tune a set of physical, mental, and social skills that would eventually help him become more confident and independent, able to better understand and enjoy the outdoors, and learn to work cooperatively with others as well as take on a leading role in scouting. This young scout would move forward during his next journey in scouting to advance through the Boy Scout ranks and become the senior patrol leader of the scouts in Troop 103. And through it all, his efforts resulted in earning the Eagle Scout Award; the 73rd scout to do so with Troop 103.~~

~~The important part about this boy's scouting adventure was not just about accomplishing his goals but having a role model to step in and encourage and guide him, not doing it for him but showing and explaining, helping this boy develop critical thinking skills, provide motivation with a mix of enthusiasm, and making the entire process fun.~~

~~This scout's role model from Cub to Eagle Scout was his father.~~
